BOSTON POST CANE RECIPIENT VERNA DUNN

We were all saddened to hear of the passing of Verna Dunn at the age of 101. Verna was our oldest resident and the proud holder of the Boston Post Cane.

On Sunday afternoons during the summer, the Enfield Historical Society opens its Lockhaven school house to visitors. As she neared 100 years of age, Verna Dunn asked to host one of the events, perhaps because she had attended school there as a young girl. It was the best attended Society event of the season, as her family and relatives gathered to be with her. Verna sat in the old oak teacher's chair behind the matching desk and reminisced about life in one room schools, the teachers, and studies undertaken. In her reserved way she kept the audience spell-bound for more than two hours with first-hand recollections from school past: her life in Enfield and opinions on current events. The in-person account itself was an opportunity, but to cover a period of 100 years is unusual and something for which the Society is grateful.

Verna Dunn continued to work at the Methodist Church thrift shop up until just a few weeks ago – continuing to give to the community. She was a strong woman with a wealth of knowledge that she willingly shared. She will be sorely missed by all who knew her.

A Brief History of the Boston Post Cane

In the fiercely competitive publishing world of the early 1900s, The Boston Post was one of many Boston newspapers fighting for its very survival.

Its owner, editor, and publisher, Edwin Atkins Grozier, a man of unusual business acumen, produced many promotional schemes to increase the circulation of his newspaper. For thirty-two years he successfully captivated his readers with contests. With each contest the newspaper's circulation grew. By the 1920s, The Boston Post was recognized as one of the leading morning newspapers of the world.

Probably Grozier's most famous and longest lasting advertising promotion was the give-away of the Boston Post canes. If the idea of the "cane" was not readily accepted by some other New England newspapers, it was enthusiastically received by the oldest men of New England.

The Boston Post sent ebony gold-headed canes to each of 700 New England towns with the request that they be presented, with the compliments of the Post, to the oldest citizens of their respective communities.¹

The "Boston Post Cane," passed from hand to hand down the years in compliance with the inscribed directions on the gold head, became a New England salute to its Senior Citizens.²

Recent Enfield holders of the cane include:

Idella Sanders (8/24/1882-12/21/1985)
Walter Morse (9/19/1887-11/2/1987)
B. Wayne Campbell (3/1/1891-6/8/1991)
Bernice Morse (3/31/1891-4/2/1996)
Mazie Barker (6/30/1895-7/31/1998)
Muriel Salman (7/24/1900-11/26/1998)
Ernest A. Popple (1/6/1903-10/13/1999)
Henrietta A. Hayes (1/31/1904-10/27/1999)
Ann Tarney (8/18/1904-7/19/2008)
Leonard Johnston (4/7/1913-10/14/2011)
Margaret Haskins (9/04/1916-6/25/2016)
Verna Dunn (12/23/1919-5/19/2021)

In the time honored tradition, the Boston Post Cane will be presented to the next oldest living resident of Enfield. In this day and age we don't have the same methods for determining who that might be. We know of one resident who is 100 years old, but there may be others in Town. Please, if you have a friend or family member who may be eligible to accept this honor, please reach out to Marjorie Carr at mcarr@enfield.nh.us or Alisa Bonnette at abonnette@enfield.nh.us or 603-442-5401 as soon as possible.

POLICE DEPARTMENT

Hello from the Enfield Police Department. Summer is upon us and school will be ending in mid-June. Our department would like to extend congratulations to all our graduating seniors and wish you luck as you move on to your next adventure. The department would also like to congratulate Police Assistant, Carl Pellerin on his retirement as of May 28th. We are very grateful for his 10 years of service to our community and wish him well in his retirement.

We offer a warm welcome to the many new residents who have moved to Enfield. We would like to take a moment to remind everyone that after 60 days of residing in Enfield, your driver's license and vehicle registration is expected to be completed in New Hampshire. If you have any question on how to register your car, please contact our Town Offices at 603-632-5001 or townclerk@enfield.nh.us.

A kind reminder that the upper beach parking on NH Route 4A is for beach goers only and boat trailers are not permitted to park there. The lower beach parking is for vehicles with trailers only. Trailer parking is permitted on Route 4A after the 'no parking' signs – however, all wheels - including trailer wheels, must be on the right side of the white fog line so as not to impede traffic.

Bears continue to be a nuisance in Enfield regarding trash. The Town Ordinance requires that trash receptacles be placed curbside no earlier than the night prior to pick up and must be brought in the same day as trash pickup. If a bear or other animal gets into your trash, it is your responsibility to clean it up. If you are having difficulty with a nuisance bear, please reach out to us and we will help connect you with New Hampshire Fish & Game.

With the warmer weather the department has seen a large increase in seasonal traffic. We have noticed more impaired driving, drugged driving, and distracted driving. The department will be conducting enforcement patrols to combat impaired and distracted driving. Do not drive if you have been consuming alcohol. Put down your phone and get where you are going safely.

If you see something say something. You can reach us at the station at 603-632-7501 or dispatch at 603-643-2222.

LAND USE AND COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT

The Zoning Board of Adjustment (ZBA) held no hearings in May. Their next hearing is scheduled for June 8th, 2021 at 7:00 pm. This will be for Enfield Land Use Case # Z21-06-01 where Chris Bocash will request a variance to Enfield's Zoning Ordinance (Article IV, Section 401.1) to operate an automobile repair business in the "R1" Residential District (zone) at 89 Shaker Hill Road (Tax Map 34, Lot 99). The subject property is owned by David, Deborah and Christopher Bocash. As has been the case during the global pandemic, this meeting is scheduled to take place via the Zoom Web Meetings Platform. You can find the required Zoom Web Meeting login info, this meeting's agenda as well as the previous meeting's minutes on the ZBA section of the Town's website at: <https://www.enfield.nh.us/zoning-board-adjustment>

The Planning Board (PB) held a hearing on May 12th at 7:00 pm via the Zoom web meeting platform. This hearing was to act on an application for Major Site Plan Review (SPR) and Waivers from Vertex Towers, LLC. A presentation for a 197 ft tower in the "Dry Bridge Hill" vicinity, near Morhouse Lane was made. This tower is planned to address a gap in cellular coverage along Rt 4 and Rt 4A. The hearing was a long one, and featured input and questions from the abutters. After all the discussions and questions were addressed, the Planning Board voted to approve the project with several conditions. Construction of the tower should happen later this year.

At the May 12th meeting, the Planning Board also approved a Voluntary Lot Merger (VLM) on Mountain View Drive. Jason and Dawn Archambeault applied for approval to merge their two lots into one. The PB voted unanimously to accept this action.

Another hearing was held on May 26th for a Boundary Line Adjustment (BLA) for Steve and Jean Patten on Livingstone Lodge Road (Enfield Land Use Case # P21-05-01). A BLA is different from a subdivision in that no new lots are created, rather the line between two lots is moved to add land to one lot while taking the same land away from the other.

On June 9th, 2021 the Planning Board and the Zoning Board of Adjustment (ZBA) will hold a joint meeting to discuss common land use issues. The respective board chairs felt this was a good idea that has been discussed for a long time in Enfield. The public is encouraged to attend and participate in the discussions. As always, Zoom web meeting login information, meeting agendas and previous meeting minutes are all available on the Planning Board section of the Town's website at: <https://www.enfield.nh.us/planning-board>

The Town's Master Planning Task Force continues to meet twice a month on the second and fourth Mondays. At the most recent Task Force meeting, the idea of a new "Scope of Work" was discussed for a professional Master Planning firm. Town Meeting approved a $35,000 funding request to hire professional Master Planning Contractor, to assist with the creation of a new Master Plan. The Task Force will be defining the role that any outside company will play in the process. There was also a presentation at the meeting by the Task Force sub-committee on Housing. This is an area that will need some serious attention in the updated Master Plan, as the Real Estate market has experience significant changes including; escalating prices and very low inventories, particularly in the “affordable/ entry level” class of properties. All Task Force meetings are open to the public and minutes and agendas are made available on the Town’s dedicated Master Planning website: <http://www.enfield-leaps.org>

If you have an idea for your property, be it a subdivision, VLM, BLA or a concept for a new business and/ or land use, please reach out to the Town’s Land Use and Community Development Administrator, Rob Taylor, Monday to Friday at 603-442-5427 from 8:00 am to 4:00 pm or by email at: planning@enfield.nh.us. You may also schedule an in person discussion at the DPW facility at 74 Lockehaven Road. Due to COVID19, we are continuing to observe pandemic protocols such as wearing face masks and staying socially distanced. Stay safe everyone and happy spring!

Aerosol cans, empty: Recycle with scrap metal. Talk to your town. (Bring cans with product in them to collection.)

Ammunition and explosives: State Police at 271-3636.

Asbestos: Get a licensed asbestos specialist. Asbestos is hazardous to your health—don't remove it yourself!

Batteries, alkaline: Most non-rechargeable batteries (AA, AAA, C, D, and 9-volt) are trash in NH. If in doubt, just bring to collection. Tape 9-volt terminals before disposal to avoid fire in your trash!

Batteries, automotive: Take to parts store for cash or your transfer station

Fire extinguishers: Recycle empty extinguishers (NRRRA takes from towns).

Fluorescent lights: May be taken at your town facility. Check with your town. Food Co-ops and Home Depot may take CFLs (spiral bulbs), not tubes.

Latex paint: Use kitty litter, sawdust, or shredded paper to dry out latex paint; throw in your trash. Empty, dry metal cans may be recycled as scrap metal at your recycling facility. If it says "clean up with soap and water," it's latex.

Medical sharps: Place in a rigid container (e.g. detergent bottle), seal cap with duct tape, and label container with marker, "Sharps, not for recycling."

Dispose of with regular trash by handing to a waste collector—can become a projectile if compacted in trash. Lebanon Police Station accepts some sharps.

Medicine: See www.twinstatesafemeds.com for police stations taking meds.

Propane or helium tanks: Propane/helium tanks can be exchanged/refilled at a distributor; or contact town transfer station about empty tanks.

Used motor oil: Take to town transfer station or a service station for recycling.

We also do offer paperless billing! Payments made by electronic check online have an additional flat fee of 95 cents. Payments by credit card have an additional fee of 2.95%. BUILDING, HEALTH & FIRE INSPECTION DEPARTMENTS

For those in Town who are wondering how much longer lumber prices and correlated construction costs will remain at their current high levels, the answer is from one to four years according to representatives from Random Lengths, a wood products industry market publication. Many residents and certainly all contractors are aware of the higher cost of wood products these days, and the cost increase adds up to a lot across the board. An average single family American home requires about 16,000 board feet of lumber to build, and the wholesale price of lumber per thousand board feet has more than doubled from its previous peak of May, 2018. This is noteworthy because prior to that peak it had not varied in peak price by more than a few tens of dollars for over twenty years. Structural panels such as plywood and OSB are similarly at historical market heights. The Building Inspector recently attended a webinar during which the economic causes were reviewed, and residents might be interested in the facts presented. As most would assume, the higher price of wood building products is directly related to the pandemic due to both supply and demand pressures.

Supply was impacted in part by the total increase in pandemic related demand for wood-based products such as bathroom tissue, product packaging including cardboard boxes used to ship items purchased online, food packaging such as take out containers, and of course disposable face masks. Wood building product supply was purposefully diminished at the start of the pandemic because American sawmill and panel plant managers anticipated a drop off in demand following the March 13, 2020 declaration of a national state of emergency by the president and decreased production in response. Lumber executives did not anticipate that accumulated consumer dollars which might ordinarily have been spent at locked down non-essential businesses such as restaurants and vacation destinations, along with the additional trillions in direct government aid to the general public, would be quickly repurposed to home improvement projects and new home construction. The key development occurred when the wood products industry was deemed an essential industry, and construction was permitted to proceed amid the Covid restrictions. The buying boom at home centers and lumber yards began soon after the lockdown requirements took effect. At the same time purchases surged, lumber production and distribution systems were encumbered by lockdown restrictions. The inability of the sawmills to hire enough workers was reported to be a problem prior to Covid, and that difficulty was exacerbated by the virus. The lumber industry at the start of the pandemic had not yet regained the production output of the previous boom in 2006, and it neither predicted nor prepared inventory for the unexpected economic response by consumers.

Consumer demand was influenced by multiple factors including low mortgage rates, a younger generation reaching their prime home buying years, an influx of pets and family members into existing homes, and a historical lag in new single family housing construction that has persisted since the previous housing boom ended in 2008. According to the National Association of Realtors, 41% of new home purchases last year were influenced by the pandemic, and they expect the impact of employee migration within the United States to influence the construction industry and housing markets for up to five more years as the shift to remote working becomes permanent for some workers and the allure of larger homes in the suburbs and beyond becomes more feasible to them. The percentage of employees working from home increased from about 5 percent to more than 35 percent in the past year, and it is estimated that if only ten percent of those remote workers decide to build a 225 square foot home office to accommodate their new lifestyle that it will equal the total square footage of new single family home construction from just a couple years ago. Naturally some projects will be postponed due to rising costs, and the current level of demand will be prolonged once they resume.

Internationally it is reported that Europe is experiencing a similar construction boom related to pandemic supply and demand pressures. The USA-Canada softwood lumber tariffs that imposed 20.23% duties on Canadian imports since 2017 are still in effect although they have been reduced to roughly 9% as of December 2020, and Canadian appeals continue to work their way through international courts. Brazilian plywood imports are down 20%, partly due to Covid impacts on production and partly due to lawsuits filed by domestic plywood manufacturers against Brazilian producers. Chinese moulding and millwork companies remain the largest export market for US softwood suppliers. Finally, worldwide e-commerce is continuing to boom and the demand for packaging products is expected to grow stronger than ever.

What is the solution to rising lumber prices? Economists say markets always ultimately reset after booms. That is what has happened in the past. In the meantime, the next time your spouse wants to be taken someplace expensive to celebrate an important occasion try taking them on a trip to the nearest home center or lumber yard. See where that gets you. Might need to build a new doghouse sooner than you expect.

"KNOW YOUR TOWN"

"Know your Town" is presented by the Enfield Heritage Commission. Each month we'll bring you a bit of insight into the origins of street names or places you see every day.

Caleb Dyer Lane

The greatest influence of the Shakers on the town of Enfield as we know it today was through the vision and hard work of a single man: Caleb Dyer.

A New Hampshire native, Dyer was the eldest of five children in a family that joined the Shaker community in 1813, when he was thirteen. Dyer's mother was unsatisfied with Shaker life and left after two years; her children stayed behind. Caleb became an Assistant Deacon when he was twenty-one and began his long career interacting with "people of the world" as non-Shakers were called.

It was Dyer who made a deal, including the gift of land on the north side of Lake Mascoma and funds to buy a locomotive, to reroute the planned railroad. He convinced the railroad directors in Concord to lay tracks through north Enfield rather than along the 4A corridor, preserving the Shakers' farms and tranquility.

This changed the balance of economic activity in the Enfield township, which the Shakers made the most of. Dyer's work on behalf of the Shakers would coincide with both Enfield and the Shaker community's greatest prosperity and population. Dyer was responsible for building farm and manufacturing buildings renowned in New England for their modernity. A cow barn he built was heated and silage was warmed, which increased milk production by twenty percent.

Dyer oversaw the transformation of the downtown area—then known as North Enfield—and took a personal interest in the various industries located along the Mascoma, which included a grist mill, tannery, blacksmith and a woolen mill supplied by Merino sheep the Shakers raised. All this activity called for a better connection between the Shaker community on the western side of Lake Mascoma. It was Dyer who led the building of the Shaker Bridge.

The prosperity that Dyer brought to the downtown inspired a movement to change its name to Dyersville, an accolade that was not accepted by either Dyer or the Shaker ministry. Thus, the shock must have been incalculable when a drunken man murdered Dyer in 1863. The man had come to visit his daughters and, unable to find them, shot Dyer who happened to enter the office where the man was waiting. Despite the care of local doctors, Dyer died 13 days later.

Dyer's head for business, his personality and skill were so integral to the Shakers and the town of Enfield, that neither recovered completely from his death.

Soon after, non-Shaker businesses that Dyer had worked with took advantage of the gap left by his absence. A series of shady transactions using doctored books drained the Shakers' funds in fraud and legal expenses.

Other factors contributed to the Shakers' decline, including improving conditions in New England, which made communal life less attractive, the transformation from an agricultural to an industrial economy and the failure to attract new and younger members. The decline of the Shakers after Dyer's death in 1863 ended when the last of the families was disbanded in 1923. Buildings were sold and moved and the furniture in them was sold, furnishing many homes in Enfield.

Shaker lands were put on the market. They attracted the interest of a New York sporting club and a resort. The Shakers preferred selling to the La Salette missionary order (for much less) because they preferred a religious use. After 70 years as a seminary and site for retreats, La Salette sold most of the acreage to a developer in 1985. Caleb Dyer Lane was the name given to one of the new streets in the newly subdivided land.

UPCOMING PUBLIC MEETINGS (SCHEDULE SUBJECT TO CHANGE)

There were changes in COVID-19 guidelines issued by the CDC and the statewide mask mandate was lifted in May. The Enfield Board of Selectmen will be discussing the Town's mask ordinance and Town operations on June 7 – after the issuance of this newsletter. (See meeting link below.)

Governor Sununu's Emergency Order #12 authorized public bodies to conduct virtual meetings. This authority has been continued as the governor has renewed the state of emergency every three weeks. As the state continues to reopen, the state of emergency may end soon, and with it the authority to meet without a physical location. The governor's most recent order has extended the state of emergency until June 11, and it is uncertain whether it will be extended again. If it is not, the authority to hold entirely virtual meetings will expire on June 11.

While there is pending legislation that would allow for virtual meetings by statute, even if passed, it will likely not be in effect until later this year. (Source: NH Municipal Association)

Meeting locations in June are subject to change. Please be assured that specifics about meeting locations, including joining the meeting via Zoom, if applicable, will be posted on the Town's website at www.enfield.nh.us.
